

About Kevin Blair

Garden Production Manager Kevin Blair's 35 years of experience as a high school agriculture education teacher will come in handy as WCI integrates its new Geothermal Greenhouse into produce production and educational programming. At each of his schools, Kevin's students managed a greenhouse and hosted plant sales to the public. In addition to teaching and coaching, Kevin has a background in ag business and machinery operations and is skilled in management and organization.

Born and raised on a family farm in nearby Macksburg, Kevin was named Iowa Vocational Teacher of the Year in 2012 and has won numerous other teaching and FFA advisory awards.
